The Campus

By J. E. Johnson

In the course of our peripatetic travels, we have seen many interesting and unusual sights. We have seen the sights of the city, the sights of the country, and the sights of the sea. But the most interesting sight of all is the campus of Murray State.

We are all united in our love of the campus. It is a place where we can feel at home. It is a place where we can let our hair down and enjoy ourselves. It is a place where we can find comfort and solace.

The campus is a place where we can find a sense of community. We are all members of the same community, and we all share the same values and beliefs. We are all united in our love of learning, and we are all united in our love of each other.

If you ever want to experience the true meaning of community, you should visit the campus of Murray State. It is a place where you can find a sense of belonging, and it is a place where you can find a sense of home.

LETTING COOL BILLS

Dear Campus:

I am a new student at Murray State, and I am looking for a place to stay. I have heard that the dorms are not the best, and I am looking for a place that is more comfortable.

I have heard that there are many options available, and I would like to know which one you would recommend. I am a single student, and I am looking for a place that is affordable and comfortable.

I would appreciate it if you could let me know which option you would recommend. I am looking forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Banquet Opinions—

WILLIE PONT is only a freshman, but she has ideas about the Junior-Senior banquet. She thinks the banquet is a fine thing.

"Boys usually do like free truns," but it is a good thing for them to sit still. I think the Jesuits are doing the best thing for them. I think they are giving the Junior-Senior banquet for the Jesuits. I think the banquet is a fine thing and that it is better to have it without any money.

JENIFER LOU JONES says: "The Jesuits have a Golden Key that they are called the Key of Ignatius. If the Jesuits have a Key of Ignatius, I think it is only right that they should have a banquet in honor of the Jesuits. It is a fine thing."

What you think of those presents?

I think the presents are very fine. The presents are a key chain and a tie. The tie is a fine thing.

The flowers are not very showy. They are pretty. The flowers are not very showy. They are not very showy.

What do you think of the flowers?

I think the flowers are pretty. The flowers are pretty. The flowers are pretty.

There is a girl who has a bunch of flowers in her hand. The flowers are pretty. The flowers are pretty. The flowers are pretty.

We give the banquet a good rating. We give the banquet a good rating. We give the banquet a good rating.

The banquet is the "sensation of the evening." The banquet is the "sensation of the evening." The banquet is the "sensation of the evening."

Error of Opinion May Be Tolerated Where Reason Is Left to Convict Itself.

To err is human. Yet none have always desired and will as far as may be. We may think of a man who has been more than one opinion but changed it when it was proved wrong. We are given a chance to change our opinions in the face of convincing evidence. It is the mark of a free society, and the more we know in order to reflect on an opinion which has been proved wrong.

Would you as a pupil admire a teacher who refused to admit that he was wrong when he was made a mistake? No, you could neither help him or his opinions. When did you think that would be setting a good example? As a matter of fact, he might not have been wrong.

When one is proved wrong, what does he gain by sticking to his opinion? There is no one to come between him and the one who is right. Even if he wins, he loses nothing among the number of those who have been proved wrong and the number of those who have been proved right.

Nevertheless, the teacher who refuses to admit he was wrong when he was made a mistake is admirable. No, you could neither help him or his opinions. When did you think that would be setting a good example? As a matter of fact, he might not have been wrong.

The new school year is a well under way. The new faculty and students have announced themselves to the staff and school staff and students and many new activities are beginning.

We at THE AGGIELITE will endeavor to keep the old school and new school spirit high. We are here to work and study. Let's get practical knowledge every day.

ROBINE

Anne, you have even guessed at all the excitement that characterized my last school year. The beautiful evenings were filled with the magic of the moon and the stars. I was never home alone, and the girls and boys could always be found in the halls. The most exciting events were the dances and the plays. I always had a crush on the most popular boy in school, and his name was Robert. I was sure that he was going to ask me to the formal dance at the end of the year, but when the day arrived, he never showed up. I was devastated. I had planned to dance with him all night long, and I was hoping that he would finally ask me to be his girlfriend.

English Notes

We were crowded in the classroom. Not a seat would dare to peek. Miss Brower was very teacherly and we had enjoy what we thought.

The second thing in English was to study all the questions. We all knew what we could not pass.

So we suffered there is silence. The height held his breath. Then the teacher wrote the questions. Each of us turned pale as death. And then we all in English. Each one tried to say his prayer. I have failed the students mentally. As they staggered down the stairs. Then one of the pupils questioned. As she wrapped her hat back. "Wasn't it fully so every one? Could there be so cruel a soul?"

Then talked about the questions. And we awarded what we made. But when we were wrote out. We all hope to have a grade. Speaking of athletics, the horse fly is always on the town.

Joe Bush (at dinner) "Are you from Chicago?"

Hughie (at dinner) "How old are you going to?"

"I'm 21," replied Joe Bush. "And you handed a knife pretty well."

Mr. Heron: "What is the highest form you have?"

Markie: "Has it got a big mouth?"

"How many," replied Markie. "It turned in front of a treble cat and she collected cuffs and jolted "all off, outward."

Is it true the entire class left the school something? Yes, they left the building.

Joe R. "Can you imagine anything worse than a gull with a needle?"

Maurice: "Sure, a centered with curm." Gus Braddock: "You must not stand in the library?

"I can't," replied Gus Braddock. "I am not going. You are not going. She is not going. For he is not going. We are not going. They are not going."

Joy: "Ain't nobody going."

Miss Smith: "Tell me something about Hitler."

John L. "Well, he got married and wrote "Paradise Lost." Then his wife died and he wrote "Paradise Regained.""

BUILDING A TEMPLE

A builder build a temple— With loving and infinite care, Walking each brick with patience. Lifting each stone with prayer. Penned by his memory effort. Now kneel of her wooden plan. For the temple the builder build. Was seen by the eyes of men.

God is the builder's temple. Built into the earth. Laid such sturdy pillars. Fans for expecting trust. And the temple the builder build. Will last while the ages roll. For that peaceful temple never build is a child's immortal soul.

"GUESS WHO?"

In the College Freshmen class there is a pretty girl. That never worries because her hat doesn't cost. She has a permanent wave and she is slender and tall. For this young lady the boys all fall. She has lovely hands. She is very much a fashionista and she expresses in始终. And a college bath is her heaven always. The rest of this poem I will not compel. And the penny of this coin will not let you guess.

There is a boy in Murray school. A handsome young lad that is perfectly bald. Light brown hair, dark blue eyes, but takes the prize. The college Fresh class this young lad.

And it is rumored that even on the second floor, never gets mad. He is known to have his site. For he is a favorite football star.

Juniata College

(Cong. story page one)

The Juniata College is the first publicly operated senator to study in the nation's non-segregated high-schools. It is now in many Juniata College. Most of the work is performed in the space given at the university. These two colleges are the result of an effort to create a great public university. It is the first of its kind in the nation. It must be concluded that the functions which tradition has established as belonging to the college in its life must be college life, a fulfillment of the inherent urge of young men and women of college age. The junior college should, in every way, develop the college atmosphere, leaving out as far as possible all features which have not proved cultural and advantageous.—From Juniata College Journal.

JUBILEE QUARTET

In the Jubilee Singers, eligible for their own harmonious, are the result of the vision and training of Robert Johnson, one of the outstanding musicians of the entire world. The voice or academic courses should be general, not fundamental, institutional, and critical and, as far as possible, each one of them should give a bird's-eye view of the entire field which it attempts to cover. The pupil, when graduated, should be able to distinguish and to do is in a worthwhile way, and in addition to order his and his problems.

To be successful and able to attract and hold students, a junior college must be a vital educational unit. It must contain within itself the functions which tradition has established as belonging to the college. Its life must be college life, a fulfillment of the inherent urge of young men and women of college age. The junior college should, in every way, develop the college atmosphere, leaving out as far as possible the features which have not proved cultural and advantageous.—From Juniata College Journal.

THE FARMER'S WEEKLY

Here and There
With the Campus Camera

I wasted last Tuesday morning with my blind uncle on the campus. The weather was a bit chilly, but the sun was shining and we enjoyed a pleasant walk around the campus.

The Parlor, with its elegant furnishings, is a perfect spot for a late afternoon tea. The music from the organ and the chatter of the students add to the atmosphere of relaxation.

At the library, a quiet study area, students can be found working on their assignments or just browsing through the stacks. The quiet atmosphere is conducive to focusing on their studies.

At the student center, a lively atmosphere prevails as students gather to socialize and enjoy the amenities offered. The student center is a hub of activity, where students can find food, gathering spaces, and study rooms.

At the dormitories, a sense of community is evident. Students share living spaces and often become close friends through their shared experiences.

The campus is a place where students can learn and grow in a supportive environment.

FLIGHT AND GAMES

In the Howell-Hillock match, the Howell won by a score of 10-3. The Howell will play the next match on Tuesday at 3:00 PM. The Hillocks will play their next match on Wednesday at 2:00 PM.

The Murray State University football team is currently preparing for their next game. The team is practicing hard and hopes to perform well in their upcoming match.

THE SHADY GLENN

It was just a few minutes before the bell rang on Friday afternoon when the principal announced that "That Old Blackboard" and "O, L. Soon" would meet in the auditorium to recognize outstanding students and athletes.

"That Old Blackboard" is an annual tradition where students and faculty are honored for their contributions to the school.

"O, L. Soon" is a tradition where the local high school football team recognizes top performers from the previous season.

Both events are highly anticipated and attract a large crowd.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

The Murray State University campus is decorated with Christmas lights and ornaments. The trees are covered in lights and the halls are filled with festive decorations.

Classes will be in session until December 19th, after which there will be a holiday break until January 4th.

A Christmas tea was given last Thursday by Miss Rogers, assisted by the home economics girls.

The Christmas setup consisted of beautifully arranged Christmas trees, festooned with Simcraf ornaments, of the best kind, and they made a very pretty sight. The decorations were of the same kind and were all very pretty and gay.

The first division was the tea, which was served in the tea room of the home economics building.

The tea lasted for about an hour and a half, after which the guests were invited to the home economics building for refreshments.

The refreshments consisted of sandwiches, fruit, and tea.

The tea was a great success, and all who attended enjoyed themselves.

Miss Rogers and the home economics girls deserve much credit for the success of the tea.

TEA WITH MISSES RAVEN

The faculty and students of the high school were entertained by Miss Raven on Monday afternoon.

Miss Raven gave a very interesting talk on the work of the faculty and the students of the high school.

The students were very much impressed by the talk, and many of them expressed their appreciation of it.

The tea was a great success, and all who attended enjoyed themselves.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Someday—“Now here is a funny character, she was an active member of the G. O. A., a man of unusual character, of whom the organization was elected by the members into the Grand Chapter of New York City. If the man of superior quality, character, and ability is awarded.

All four years he was a member of Women’s Athletic Association, she was a member of the Junior class. Students were awarded for most, and the most handsome prizewinner in interscholastic sports for making one successful team.

Each year a player being cup is awarded to the junior having the largest number of points. This cup was awarded to Miss Jones when she graduated. She states that someday instead of skillful ability was the cup for her. Jenny has always been her favorite sport.

The EVERLASTING QUESTION—

Herself—Christmas is coming, I have an idea how I can get a fellow a sponge.
When he can’t buy a girl a single thing.

Not even a Ford or a diamond ring.

I’m not so handy with a sword that I can’t get him one.

But now, girls turn up their presents.

At anything less than two dozen.

And the girl of mine, "saw" me make him.

She knows he expects a house and her.

What in the world can I give will

When I am so unfriendly to her.

I can’t buy his time—that will not do.

On rocks which will make her love me. I do not believe that the girl of living.

Who said, I want something to eat or give.

I have tried—I shall not agree when I’m working to death—I’m ready to.

Well, doesn’t she, she, she care.
